

precise treatment for varicose veins

When choosing a physician for treatment of varicose veins, it is wise to ask two questions: Is your vein doctor a Vascular Specialist? Does he or she have privileges at a local hospital? It's your right to know.

Varicose veins will not improve on their own, but they can be successfully treated with minimally-invasive, comfortable procedures. Make sure you are in the most knowledgeable, skilled hands.

"Varicose veins are insidious," says Dr. Elizabeth Rachel. She and her colleagues, Dr. Jung, Dr. Wickel, and Dr. George, offer leading-edge, comprehensive treatment for venous deficiencies. "It is a progressive disease, and many people have put up with incompetent veins for so long that they are accustomed to the feeling of heavy, tired, painful legs. Fortunately, we have the ability to relieve those symptoms and return healthy circulation to your legs."

Mapping the Underlying Problem

At Ultimate Vein Care, your journey to healthier legs begins with a total mapping of your legs, using ultrasound technology. The doctors then customize a treatment plan based upon their detailed findings.

The discolored and bulging veins you see on the surface are the result of what is happening in veins that you can't see. "Patients are often surprised when we tell them where their problem actually starts in the leg," says Dr. Rachel.

The surgeons at Ultimate Vein Care draw upon well-proven, targeted techniques: "We employ whatever procedure is best for the vein we are treating, including endovenous, or within the vein, procedures that scar and close the incompetent vein. For the unsightly spider veins that patients want erased, we inject an FDA-approved solution, using special imaging devices for precision. The solution causes the veins to close and eventually be absorbed by the body," explains Dr. Rachel.

"We build relationships with our clients. We enjoy celebrating their successful results and providing ongoing care to keep their legs healthy and attractive."

Your specialists at Ultimate Vein Care are Board Certified in Vascular Surgery by the American Board of Surgery:

Matthew T. Jung, MD
Elizabeth S. Rachel, MD
Dean J. Wickel, MD
Salem M. George, MD

unwanted body and facial hair? go for smooth!

The old fashioned ways of removing hair—shaving, tweezing, creams, and waxing—are time consuming and don't last. Electrolysis can permanently remove hair, but it is a slow and painful method.

You don't have to settle for out-of-date solutions. At Ultimate Vein Care, laser hair removal treatments bring long-lasting results. Call for your first treatment today.

Ultimate Vein Care
Baptist East/
Milestone Wellness Center
750 Cypress Station Drive
Louisville, KY 40207
(502) 649-9400
www.ultimateveincare.com